Dr. Michelle Radeka DMD was born and raised in the city of Chicago. Although she came from a long line of cooks, bakers and bakery shop owners, at the young age of 8 she knew she would deviate from her family background and follow in the footsteps of one of her mentors and become a dentist.

Dr. Michelle Radeka DMD attended Loyola University for her undergraduate education and Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine for her dental education. She is very proud of the Second in the Nation standing her graduating class obtained on their national dental boards. Dr. Michelle Radeka DMD graduated in 1999 from dental school and moved back to Chicago to start her career. For several years she worked at various offices and in July of 2004 she opened Floss Dental Studio. With the spa like atmosphere she created, she was recognized by Time Out Chicago, Chicago Social “What’s Hot in 2006”, Crain’s Chicago Business and was featured in a short film presentation for CEO’s for Cities.

Through her work in dentistry, Dr. Michelle Radeka DMD found a true passion for complete facial aesthetics. After selling her private practice and returning to school to pursue this passion, she became Board Certified in Complete Facial Aesthetics. Her studies incorporated the use of Botox, Injectable fillers, PDO Threads, PDO Thread Lifting, Platelet Rich Plasma for tissue and hair regeneration and Autologous Fat Transfer to name a few. Her education and passion for facial aesthetics has given her the ability to treat many of the problems we face, literally, as we age. Dr. Michelle Radeka DMD loves to lecture on, discuss and inform her patients of these and many more treatments available to you to fight the effects of aging.
